

There are 4 basic rules that you should follow that will help you with a personal injury compensation claim

At Rin Kim Law we believe you are entitled to compensation if you were involved in an accident that was not your fault, and you suffered injuries as a result of the accident. It is your entitlement to receive compensation if you have suffered any loss as a result of an accident.

These are the 4 rules that will help you with your compensation claim.

- 1 Attend your medical practice as soon as possible and tell your doctor the symptoms you are feeling as a result of the accident. It is important to attend and receive the necessary medical treatment from your GP when you have symptoms or at least attend once a month. This is to also ensure that there are records of your symptoms. Your medical records will become crucial evidence.
- 2 If your GP has prescribed you medication, it is important that you buy the medication and keep the receipt. All the medication expenses you incur as a result of your injuries can be claimed. Therefore it is important for you to keep the receipts as evidence.
- 3 Should your symptoms persists, receive rehabilitation treatment such as physiotherapy. Your Physiotherapist will write you a treatment plan and will also recommend you exercises for you to follow. Always follow the instructions of therapist to help manage your symptoms.
- 4 Show your economic loss. If you have suffered a reduction in your income, or a decrease in your working hours and even had to use sick leaves as a result of the injuries you are entitled to receive compensation for such loss. Always keep clear records such as pay slips, payment summaries and income statements.
